U.S. Airliner Hijacked

Pilot Forced To Land Ship At Cuba Base

33 Passengers, Five Crewmen Are Reported Aboard

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—With a hijacker's pistol pointed at his head, an Eastern Air Lines pilot flew his prop-jet Electra into Cuba Monday. A U.S. fighter plane tried unsuccessfully to turn him around.

The fighter, an F102 Delta Dagger with Capt. W. G. Hayes at the controls, returned to Florida after accompanying the airliner to Cuba's three-mile territorial limit.

Thirty-three passengers and five crewmen were aboard the Electra when it landed at Havana's Jose Marti airport at 11:25 a.m. It had left Miami at 9:05 a.m., bound for Tampa, New Orleans and Dallas.

Dag Hammarskjold Arrives In Tunisia

Hopes To Prevent New Outbreak

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI)—United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold arrived here Monday night to try to prevent a new outbreak of fighting in tense Bizerte. The shaky cease-fire there threatened to collapse at any moment.

Tunisia's Arab neighbors were mobilizing to aid in the fight against what they branded French "aggression." Jordan announced a fully equipped infantry squadron planned to leave Jordan Monday night for Tunisia. Tunisian U.N. troops arrived from the Congo.

Thousands of refugees were streaming out of Bizerte in fear of new warfare. Their apprehension was heightened by Tunisian charges the French were unloading troop reinforcements from a ship at Cape Blanc, a few miles northwest of Bizerte, in defiance of the cease-fire ordered by the United Nations Security Council.

French sources said it was "likely" that some troops arrived aboard the ship since the Cape Blanc area includes outlying camps of the Bizerte naval base. But they said the main purpose of the ship's arrival was to take aboard 300 families of French soldiers for return to France.

Katanga To Accept Russian Aid

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI)—Katanga Interior Minister Godfroid Munongo said Monday his government has accepted Russian offers of help and officially opened negotiations of the conference after NATO Secretary General Dirk Stikker briefed them on the McNamara-Norstad talks.

Alcoholism No. 3 U.S. Health Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A University of Illinois professor said Monday that alcoholism has become the nation's No. 3 health problem. He predicted a wave of prohibition may occur throughout the United States between 1965 and 1970.

Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, head of the university's Department of Clinical Science, spoke at the sixth annual session of the Washington Institute of Scientific Studies for the Prevention of Alcoholism.

Ivy said every doctor in the United States would be needed to treat all the alcoholics in this country.

The interior minister also said two delegations "are due to leave almost immediately for Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia from whom we are seeking financial, economic and cultural aid."

The Miami Weather Bureau, in its final advisory issued at noon EDT, said the season's first hurricane moved over land in the Mangrove Creek area about 75 miles south of the capital city of Belize.

Highest winds in the center had dropped to 75 miles per hour by the time the storm had churned five miles inland, the weather bureau said, heading westerly toward the rough terrain of British Honduras and southeastern Mexico.

British Face Increase In Postal Rates

Government Plans Moves To Fight Inflation Trend

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government increased post office charges Monday only 24 hours before the scheduled announcement of a stern austerity program for the nation.

Tax-weary Britons crowded stores in a last-minute rush to buy consumer goods. They expect the government will increase the sales tax and excise duties and possibly clamp new restrictions on installment buying.

Their buying spree produced a Christmas Eve-in-July atmosphere in London.

Homegoing workers tucked cartons of cigarettes and bottles of scotch under their arms. Housewives ordered refrigerators and washing machines. Men crowded automobile sales rooms.

Combat Inflation

The new economic program is designed to combat inflation and protect the value of British sterling. It also may make it possible for Macmillan to open negotiations for Britain to join the European Common Market.

The treasury boss, Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd, was to announce the program in the House of Commons Tuesday. It received final Cabinet approval Monday, at a meeting presided over by Macmillan.

Postmaster General Reginald Beving told the House of Commons that postal and telephone charges are going up to provide his department with an extra 25 million pounds ($70 million) a year.

That was being done, he explained, to meet the higher pay granted post office employees and to enable the department to undertake the lion's share of its own capital development rather than draining money from the treasury.

Letter Rates Same

Letter rates remain the same but the increases included a boost of six pence (seven cents) for carrying parcels. Telephone charges included the addition of two pounds ($5.80) a year in the rental of exchange lines.

The economic program to be announced by Lloyd will include both short-range and long-term goals, including the organization of investment into a British five-year long-term economic development loan program.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., predicted that not more than six of the Senate's 36 Republicans will support that method of financing when the bill is called up for the start of long debate beginning next Monday.

The whole program is designed to skim off up to 200 million pounds ($560 million) a year in consumer spending.

May Freeze Wages

There were forecasts that the sales and excise tax increases might go up as much as 10 percent in some categories. This part of the program would apply to products extending from automobiles and furniture to a glass of beer.

Lloyd also is expected to impose a wage freeze on government employees and workers in nationalized industries and call on private companies to follow this lead.

And finally, the government will serve notice that it intends to avoid any devaluation of the pound, informants said.

This can best be done if Britain reinforces her gold and dollar reserves by drawing on the International Monetary Fund. Britain may ask to draw between 150 million pounds ($420 million) and 300 million pounds ($840 million).

The interior minister also said two delegations "are due to leave almost immediately for Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia from whom we are seeking financial, economic and cultural aid."

U.S. Airliner Hijacked

Pilot Forced To Land Ship At Cuba Base

33 Passengers, Five Crewmen Are Reported Aboard

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—With a hijacker's pistol pointed at his head, an Eastern Air Lines pilot flew his prop-jet Electra into Cuba Monday. A U.S. fighter plane tried unsuccessfully to turn him around.

The fighter, an F102 Delta Dagger with Capt. W. G. Hayes at the controls, returned to Florida after accompanying the airliner to Cuba's three-mile territorial limit.

Thirty-three passengers and five crewmen were aboard the Electra when it landed at Havana's Jose Marti airport at 11:25 a.m. It had left Miami at 9:05 a.m., bound for Tampa, New Orleans and Dallas.

MONTGOMERY, W. Va. (AP)—Capt. W. E. Buchanan, the pilot of the hijacked Eastern Air Lines plane, is a son of the president of the Montgomery National Bank here.

The father, William Buchanan, was too upset to talk to newsmen. His son has been flying with Eastern for approximately 12 years.

The last word from the pilot, Capt. W. E. Buchanan, was: "I am proceeding to Havana at pistol point." His radio then went silent.

There was silence also from the Cuban radio. In a radio-television speech July 4, Prime Minister Fidel Castro threatened to keep any planes hijacked in the United States and flown to Cuba.

The Electra landed in Havana amid the confusion preceding the arrival of Yuri Gagarin, the Soviet space man. He is in Havana to attend Castro's 26th of July celebration.

The passengers were discharged in waiting rooms at the airport while crew members were questioned by police.

There was no word from Cuba as to when the Americans might be allowed to leave.

The first indication that something had happened to the Electra came when the $31.3-million aircraft made a sharp turn off course on the radar scope operated by the Federal Aviation Agency at Tampa. This occurred as the plane was about 20 miles southwest of Pahokee, Fla. There it swerved directly toward Havana.

A FAA report that the Electra had left its pattern was picked up by the North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo. An order went to the Homestead, Fla., Air Force base to send up a fighter.

Ever since the Cuban invasion, NORAD has been keeping a close watch on the Florida area.

Hayes, a member of the 482nd Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base, N.C., picked up the plane south of Miami. Hayes is on temporary duty at Homestead.

He wagged his wings at the airliner in a futile effort to turn it back. Although he was fully armed with air-to-air missiles, he did not fire for fear of hurting the American passengers.

The United States promptly asked for release of the plane, its passengers and crew. The request was sent through the Swiss Embassy in Havana, which represents American interests in Cuba in the absence of U.S.-Cuban diplomatic ties.

The Electra was the second American airliner to be hijacked and flown into Cuba. The other, a National Airlines Convair, was taken over May 1 by a gun-and-knife wielding Cuban over the Florida Keys.

NATO Approves American Stand On Berlin Crisis

P-1 — NATO APPROVES

PARIS (UPI) — NATO's permanent council of ministers said its approval Monday to the American stand on Berlin and the crisis message President Kennedy will deliver to the nation Tuesday night.

The developments came after U.S. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara conferred two days with Gen. Lauris Norstad, the Allied Supreme Commander in Europe, and then flew to London for talks with British defense officials.

U.S. NATO Ambassador Thomas K. Finletter went before the 15-member council with a 40-minute advance report on the Kennedy speech and the measures he will unveil.

Informed NATO sources said the message was not concerned solely with military aspects of the Berlin crisis but embraced all aspects of the East-West struggle.

Actual details of the points to be made by Kennedy were not made public.

NATO sources said several NATO representatives raised some questions as to the American policy on Berlin but that all expressed satisfaction at the end of the conference after NATO Secretary General Dirk Stikker officially opened negotiations to strengthen ties with the Communist bloc.

Munungo made the startling disclosures at a news conference when he said representatives would go soon to Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. He told newsmen he spoke in behalf of Katanga President Moise Tshombe. Tshombe, who has been reported ill, has not made public appearances since July 11.

At a news conference last Thursday, Munungo denounced American policies in the Congo and said Katanga might turn to the Soviet Union for help to safeguard its independence. He said then that the Russians appeared to be the "only country capable of giving effective help to its friends."

The interior minister also said two delegations "are due to leave almost immediately for Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia from whom we are seeking financial, economic and cultural aid."

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Anna

hurled winds up to 85 miles per hour at the coast of British Honduras Monday but began weakening as it moved toward the mountainous inland area of the Central American country.

TYDINGS DENIED NEW TRIAL

BALTIMORE (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge R. Dorsey Watkins Monday refused to grant a new trial for James G. Sorce Jr., former savings and loan operator, who was convicted last week on mail fraud charges.

Judge Watkins said, "I feel he had a fair trial. I don't see how the jury could have reached any other verdict, and if they had, I would have been concerned and would have felt that some further inquiry might have been in order."

The jury took less than half an hour last Monday to convict Sorce, of Nutley, N.J., of falsely assuring a depositor that $40,000 worth of government bonds were being set aside to guarantee his account in the event of business difficulties.

Sentencing of Sorce was postponed until at least September pending possible appeal and a presentence report.

guiba as France and Tunisia exchanged angry charges in the United Nations of cease-fire violations and of atrocities against each other's nationals.

Hammarskjold and Bourguiba met Monday night in the President's summer home at suburban La Marsa.

A U.N. official predicted Hammarskjold would stay about 24 hours and said it was unlikely he would meet French military officials or visit Bizerte.

The Arab League in Cairo informed Tunisia it would extend all "effective material and military aid" to help Tunisia "by all means to liberate all its territory of French troops. It agreed to send in a group of volunteers." Jordan Takes Action

Jordan did not wait for council action. King Hussein ordered Army Commander Gen. Habes El-Majali to form an infantry squadron and fly it to Tunisia immediately.

The Arab League, meeting in emergency session at Bourguiba's request, rejected Saudi Arabian demands that all Arab states break off economic relations with France now. But it denounced France for waging a war of extermination and accused it of burning Tunisian villages, and killing prisoners and defenseless citizens.

Hammarskjold, arriving to carry Bourguiba's battle for Bizerte into the stage of diplomatic maneuvering, refused to comment on his mission.

Bourguiba was expected to ask him for French withdrawal to their air-naval base camps from Bizerte where rugged paratroops hold most of the city. However, Tunisian soldiers and volunteers are entrenched in the Casbah awaiting only orders to resume fighting.

Tydings Opens Investigation In The Block

BALTIMORE (AP)—Federal investigators have joined State officials in the probe of activities in Baltimore's downtown nightclub district known as the Block.

Joseph D. Tydings, U.S. attorney for Maryland, confirmed federal interest in the probe after a meeting with E. Thomas Maxwell Jr., assistant State's attorney for Baltimore.

Tydings said if signs of local violations were found, they would be turned over to local authorities. In return, State officials will give Tydings any information on infractions of federal laws which they find in their probe.

Tydings did not predict when he would present evidence to a federal grand jury.

"We're not going to rush into the grand jury next week," he said. "This will take time and effort."

Tydings also said Southern Maryland and Anne Arundel County will be included in the federal probe.

munism. That is $85 million less than Kennedy asked.

The principal new action by the Senate committee was final agreement on language protesting the Arab blockade of Israeli shipping in the Suez Canal and Arab discrimination against American Jews.

The committee, over Fulbright's protest, declared it U.S. policy to support "freedom of navigation in international waterways" and the right of members of all races and religions to travel and do business anywhere.

But it also added a clause by Fulbright asserting this principle and freedom of the press, information and religion "shall be supported in such a way as to avoid taking sides in any controversy between countries having friendly relations with the United States."

In addition to the $1.8 billion the bill provides for military assistance, it authorized the President to use up to $200 million of Defense Department arms and equipment to bolster allies in unforeseen emergencies.

Justice Dept Probing American Nazi Party

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department is seeking problems involved, serious questions for possible criminal actions have arisen as to the wisdom of Rockwell of Arlington, Va., and the effectiveness of such a course of action.

Yeagley said labeling the American Nazi party as subversive would not bar its continued operation nor would it involve any sanctions for either the party or Rockwell.

Yeagley said the information gathered thus far in the department's investigation is insufficient to warrant criminal prosecution but, "You may be assured that our inquiry develop evidence legally sufficient to establish a violation it will be acted upon with diligence and vigor."

Two members of the party were sentenced last week to one year at hard labor for assaulting a 13-year-old Jewish boy in Arlington, Va.

Group Gets SS Benefits

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

That adage paid off this month for 12 local residents between the ages of 66 and 68.

All 12 had applied for Social Security benefits before but were turned down because they did not meet the work credit requirements of the old Social Security law. Changes to the law, lowering the requirements, were passed recently by Congress and signed by President Kennedy.

W. R. Campbell, manager of the district Social Security office here, said the group tried for benefits again this month, they qualified. Each is receiving between $40 and $55 per month, depending on their work credits.

Campbell explained that persons who now meet the lower requirements for work credits will have to apply for benefits again, even if they only recently applied.

There is no way to obtain the benefits unless they are applied for or another application is made if they were refused prior to the change in the requirements, Campbell pointed out.

Trial Date August 8 In Murder

Mrs. Bessie Galliher, 47-year-old Rawlings Heights woman charged with murdering her husband, Joseph Robert Galliher, 49, yesterday waived indictment by the grand jury through her attorney, Earl E. Manges.

Manges informed James S. Getty, state's attorney that Mrs. Galliher has changed her mind about waiving indictment and has requested a trial.

Getty said her trial will begin Tuesday, August 8, at 9:15 a.m. in Allegany Circuit Court.

This will mark the first murder trial in circuit court here in several years.

Mrs. Galliher has been held in Allegany County Jail since the night of the fatal stabbing, June 5, at the couple's home.

County authorities forwarded a steel knife, the alleged weapon used, to authorities in Baltimore where an analysis of blood stains was made.

Consumption for the week ending Sunday was 91,120,000 gallons compared to 109,720,000 the same period a year ago.

Panic When You Talk?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay you real dividends in both social and business advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, self confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. Whether in business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can make a good impression every time you talk.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. Bids Received On Street Jobs

The Mayor and Council received one bid on the resurfacing of four local streets yesterday but it did not include an alternate bid for the use of a smooth seal concrete wearing course.

The Street Department has asked alternate bids on blacktop and the smooth seal, a new-type surfacing material here, which would be spread five-eighths to one inch thick instead of the two inches usually required for blacktop.

Cumberland Contracting Company submitted the only bid, all for blacktop. The bid included $1,020 for School Street; $4,615 for Montgomery Avenue; $4,590 for Tilghman Street; and $3,136 for Sedgwick Street, a total of $13,361.

Bids were referred to City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum and Street Commissioner John J. Long.

Long also was authorized to ask for bids for the resurfacing of Camden Avenue between Fayette Street and Highland Avenue.

Mayor Gets OK To Negotiate Contract

Cited as the threshold of future development, the Mayor and Council yesterday authorized Mayor J. Edwin Keech to negotiate a contract in cooperation with the State Planning Department for the employment of professional planning services here.

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission recommendation of last Friday that the firm of Morris Knowles Incorporated of Easton, Pa., be employed as city planners was accepted by council with the understanding that five to seven days a month would be spent here by James R. Woglim who is in charge of planning work and that a planner would be here 60 per cent of the time during a two-year contract.

The Mayor and Council yesterday authorized Mayor J. Edwin Keech to make the commission request. Scarlett would receive credit for the time served under a one-year contract which expires September 1 and would be entered in Sept. 2 of the wage classification program.

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder pointed out that Scarlett has received training and will be trained to handle any emergency which might arise at both the filtration and sewage treatment plants, according to information supplied her by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

In other personnel action yesterday, council approved appointment of George M. Bridges as probationary pipeman in the Fire Department.

The resignation of Frank F. McCreary, driver in the Fire-Department, was accepted. He has accepted employment at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

Roy S. Hawse, a member of the Police Department, was granted military leave from August 12-26 to receive training with the 1st Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor.

Robert Little Ebert, who with Harry Kauffman, is serving as co-chairman of the Taxpayers League, said his group is vitally interested in planning and urban renewal and congratulated the commission for its work.

Taxpayers generally owe a debt of thanks to the commission members and the League, he added, pledges its cooperation to see that Morris Knowles' work is fruitful.

He said the League is not interested in seeing just another plan put on paper but is interested in a plan of action and growth.

Street Commissioner John J. Long said employment of a city planning consultant is the beginning of a new era for Cumberland." He said he agreed that a workable plan is needed and not another like the many on paper filed in the city's offices "gathered dust."

At the same time, Long said, the planner should not concentrate on general conditions alone and he suggested that some thought be given to the field of recreation when planning work is begun.

For example, Long said, over 1,000 boys play baseball in various leagues of the city including the American Legion baseball program. While the city and Board of Education provide fields for play, there is not one baseball diamond of regulation dimensions in the city. There are none with regulation mounds, some have insufficient space at the backstops and these are a handicap to teams which go elsewhere to play in tournaments or other competition.

He proposed that the planner take into consideration the Recreation Bond issue and the prospect of constructing a regulation ballfield in the city.

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder carried the idea a bit further when she said more tennis courts are needed to meet demand.

She said this is particularly true in South End and on the West Side.

Kauffman said that the order authorizing Mayor Keech to negotiate the planning contract "is probably the most important order passed in many a year."

Comes winter and your Gas cooling system readily gives you carefree heating with a flick of the finger . . . filtered, fresh-air Gas heating that keeps the whole house snug and clean.

The installation costs of a central Gas heating-cooling system in a new home can be financed with the mortgage for a very modest increase in payments. You can probably use the existing heating ductwork for cooling to get added installation economies. In either case, Gas air conditioning costs less than you might think.

Group Gets SS Benefits

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again".
That adage paid off this month for 12 local residents between the ages of 66 and 68.

All 12 had applied for Social Security benefits before but were turned down because they did not meet the work credit requirements of the old Social Security law. Changes to the law, lowering the requirements, were passed recently by Congress and signed by President Kennedy.

W. R. Campbell, manager of the district Social Security office here, said the group tried for benefits again this month, they qualified. Each is receiving between $40 and $55 per month, depending on their work credits.

Campbell explained that persons who now meet the lower requirements for work credits will have to apply for benefits again, if they only recently applied.

There is no way to obtain the benefits unless they are applied for or another application is made if they were refused prior to the change in the requirements, Campbell pointed out.

Trial Date August 8 In Murder

Mrs. Bessie Galliher, 47-year-old Rawlings Heights woman charged with murdering her husband, Joseph Robert Galliher, 49, yesterday waived indictment by the grand jury through her attorney, Earl E. Manges.

Manges informed James S. Getty, state's attorney that Mrs. Galliher has changed her mind about waiving indictment and has requested a trial.

Getty said her trial will begin Tuesday, August 8, at 9:15 a.m. in Allegany Circuit Court.

This will mark the first murder trial in circuit court here in several years.

Mrs. Galliher has been held in Allegany County Jail since the night of the fatal stabbing, June 5, at the couple's home.

County authorities forwarded a steak knife, the alleged weapon used, to authorities in Baltimore where an analysis of blood stains was made.

Lake Below Crest

Consumption for the week ending Sunday was 91,120,000 gallons compared to 109,720,000 the same period a year ago.

Panic When You Talk?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay your real dividends in both social and business advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, self confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. Whether in business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can make a good impression every time you talk.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Simply send your request to: Conversation Studies, 835 Diversey Parkway, Dept. 293B, Chicago 14, Ill. A postcard will do.

Bids Received On Street Jobs

The Mayor and Council received one bid on the resurfacing of four local streets yesterday but it did not include an alternate bid for the use of a smooth seal concrete wearing course.

The Street Department has asked alternate bids on blacktop and the smooth seal, a new-type surfacing material here, which would be spread five-eighths to one inch thick instead of the two inches usually required for blacktop.

Cumberland Contracting Company submitted the only bid, all for blacktop. The bid included $1,020 for School Street; $4,615 for Montgomery Avenue; $4,594 for Tilghman Street; and $3,136 for Sedgwick Street, a total of $13,361.

Bids were referred to City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum and Street Commissioner John J. Long.

Long also was authorized to ask for bids for the resurfacing of Camden Avenue between Fayette Street and Highland Avenue.

Mayor Gets OK To Negotiate Contract

Cited as the threshold of future development, the Mayor and Council yesterday authorized plan put on paper but is interested in seeing just another Mayor J. Edwin Keech to negotiate a contract in cooperation with the State Planning Department for the employment of professional planning services here.

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission recommended last Friday that the firm of Morris Knowles Incorporated of Easton, Pa., be employed as city planners was accepted by council with the understanding that five to seven days a month would be spent here by James R. Wogulum who is in charge of planning work and that a resident planner would be here 60 per cent of the time during a two-year contract.

The commission also asked the city to appropriate $15,000 for the next fiscal year for the city's share of expenses and work of the Planning Commission. Under federal and state legislation passed recently, the city is eligible to receive 75 per cent in aid in the preparation of a comprehensive plan.

Work of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission was handled both by members of council and the newly-formed Cumberland Taxpayers and Property Owners League.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech congratulated the commission and said he believed Morris Knowles would do a good job. He said the commission "deserves a lot of credit" for its many hours of hard work in which it kept the city's interests in the forefront at all times.

Robert Little Ebert, who with Harry Kauffman, is serving as co-chairman of the Taxpayers League, said his group is vitally interested in planning and urban renewal and congratulated the commission for its work. Taxpayers generally owe a debt of thanks to the commission members and the League, he added, pledges its cooperation to see that Morris Knowles' work is fruitful.

After a time of tears, take time for repairs.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

There Are Ways To Erase The Trace Of Tears

There are times when crying is the pads. This will soothe irritation and bring down the swelling. The interval of rest will do its part, too, in relieving your pent-up tension.

For split-second repair to tear-stained eyes, wet two hankies, one with hot water, one with cold. Apply them alternately to your swollen eyes.

When you have more time, try this: Cover that red nose with cold cream. Then, after removing the cream, bathe your face in hot and cold water, splashing ice water on your eyes for a finishing touch. Soak two pads of cotton in ice water or witch hazel. After you settle down for a ten minute rest, cover your closed eyes with

New Burlap Fashions Easily Laundered

If that newly-fashionable fabric—burlap—has found its way into your wardrobe, you'll be happy to learn that it can be safely laundered at home.

A major producer of burlap recommends washing it separately by hand, in lukewarm soap or detergent suds and rinses. Just dip the garment up and down in the suds and rinses, hang it to drip, and smooth it while drying. If pressing is needed, use a warm—not hot—iron.

Pretty Swatters

Imaginative fly swatters—usually the least glamorous of household gadgets—now come fitted with over-size plastic flowers which conceal the business end.

These summertime essentials—with pink rose, yellow sunflower, or blue anemone motifs—can be kept sanitary by washing in hot suds and rinses after every victim is dispatched.

After a time of tears, take time for repairs.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

There Are Ways To Erase The Trace Of Tears

There are times when crying is unavoidable. But you can avoid the telltale marks that remain.

For split-second repair to tear-stained eyes, wet two handkerchiefs, one with hot water, one with cold.

Apply them alternately to your swollen eyes.

When you have more time, try this: Cover that red nose with cold cream. Then, after removing the cream, bathe your face in hot and cold water, splashing ice water on your eyes for a finishing touch. Soak two pads of cotton in ice water or witch hazel. After you settle down for a ten minute rest, cover your closed eyes with

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 24 - Bill Marshall and Ginger Rogers, who are cleaning up in the summer stock circuit starring in "Bell, Book and Candle" are ringing the bell careerwise in other mediums.

Marshall has teamed up with author Niven Busch to make a movie of Busch's book, "The Actor," about an Errol Flynn type thespian. In addition to starring in the picture, Marshall will be a financial partner in the production end with Niven.

There's a good chance that with a bit of re-writing on the wife role, Ginger will do the co-starring part with her bridegroom.

A friend of mine, once motoring through Texas, said she drove all one day and night and still was on the outskirts of the fabulous King Ranch. The reason I mention it is that you'd think a young man who is heir apparent to such a fortune would be busy spending his millions rather than acting. But not so Mario Costello, the 25-year-old actor who is high in line to one day inherit the King Ranch millions.

Mario's last name is King but for his career he chose his mother's family name of Costello so as not to trade on his background. You must give him a hand because he's getting good. Two years ago Mario won a Cannes Film Festival award for his performance in "The Pearl" and currently I learn he's a standout in his feature role with John Wayne in "The Comancheros" at 20th.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♦

A defensive slip in today's hand permitted declarer to bring in what appeared to be a real long shot.

It was difficult to avoid reaching a game contract for North could hardly refrain from raising his partner's opening one spade bid. The South hand had an original valuation of 18 points but after spades had been supported the holding was enhanced by three points — one for the fifth spade and two for the sixth. The rebid of four spades was, therefore, mandatory.

Unfortunately, however, North had the "wrong" hand. Many a dummy containing no more than seven points might render the contract a laydown.

West opened the king of diamonds and when dummy was spread it seemed to declarer there was no very sound play for the hand. Apparently he must lose two clubs, a diamond and a heart.

There were two possible holdings on which the hand could be made legitimately: (a) king and queen of hearts both in the East hand and the ace of clubs right; (b) the ace-queen of clubs doubleton in the East hand.

South decided to try the latter play and drew trumps in three rounds winding up in dummy. A low club was led next and, when East put on the nine, declarer's hope apparently went glimmering. Declarer went up with the king and lost to West's ace. West then cashed the queen of diamonds and continued with a third round. This gave declarer a chance.

If East's original holding had been the queen-nine of clubs declarer was now home. After ruffing the third round of diamonds, he played the seven of clubs and ducked in the North hand. East was compelled to win with the queen and the heart shift came too late. Declarer won with the ace and led the five of clubs, finessing the eight in dummy. The losing heart was then discarded on dummy's jack of clubs.

Traffic System Will Be Checked By Factory Expert

The Police Department hopes to get the traffic light system at the intersection of the Industrial Boulevard and Virginia Avenue in full operation today, according to Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

He said the Crouse-Hinds firm, which supplied the traffic lights, is sending a factory representative here today to inspect and regulate the system.

Mr. Fleming said the light below the B&O Subway on Virginia Avenue is still giving trouble and must be synchronized with lights at Laing Avenue and Fifth Street.

City Catches Up With Water Leaks

Water consumption dropped sharply here last week and Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said the plugging of all known water leaks was a factor.

He said all known leaks, in and out of the city, have been repaired and leaded in, and that crews yesterday began to encase the repaired points in concrete.

He said eight leaks outside and several inside the city limits have been repaired during recent weeks.

Water consumption last week averaged 13,017,000 gallons daily as compared to 15,676,000 for the week in 1960.

South End Home Damaged By Fire

An upstairs bedroom and stairway of a home at 1 Elizabeth Street was damaged by fire early yesterday afternoon.

Firemen said the fire in the home of James D. House Jr. began near the stairway door.

Fire fighters from South End and Central fire companies had to use 21 lengths of hose from a hydrant at Elizabeth Street and Lexington Avenue to reach the home located across the C & O Canal.

Firemen were at the scene for almost two hours.

Police Recover Stolen Bicycle

City police recovered one of three bicycles reported stolen from Constitution Park yesterday.

The recovered vehicle owned by Gary Orndorff, Gleason Street, was found where it had been thrown over a bank on Thomas Street.

Police said a bike owned by his brother, Rodney, was still missing and that the owner of the bike was not identified.

A member of the Masonic Order, Dr. Zimmer is affiliated with Arcadia Lodge 1168, AF & AM of Calumet City, Ill.; Scottish Rite Valley of Chicago and Medina Temple, AAONMS.

He is married and the father of two children, a son and daughter.

Webster said one of the conditions under which Dr. Zimmer will come here is that he obtain suitable housing accommodations here and be able to sell his home in Montgomery County.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 24 - Bill Marshall and Ginger Rogers, who are cleaning up in the summer stock circuit starring in "Bell, Book and Candle" are ringing the bell careerwise in other mediums.

Marshall has teamed up with author Niven Busch to make a movie of Busch's book, "The Actor," about an Errol Flynn type thespian. In addition to starring in the picture, Marshall will be a financial partner in the production end with Niven.

There's a good chance that with a bit of re-writing on the wife role, Ginger will do the co-star ring part with her bridegroom.

A friend of mine, once motoring through Texas, said she drove all one day and night and still was on the outskirts of the fabulous King Ranch. The reason I mention it is that you'd think a young man who is heir apparent to such a fortune would be busy spending his millions rather than acting. But not so Mario Costello, the 25-year-old actor who is high in line to one day inherit the King Ranch millions.

Mario's last name is King but for his career he chose his mother's family name of Costello so as not to trade on his background. You must give him a hand because he's getting good. Two years ago Mario won a Cannes Film Festival award for his performance in "The Pearl" and currently he's a standout in his feature role with John Wayne in "The Comancheros" at 20th.

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of ♦

A defensive slip in today's hand permitted declarer to bring in what appeared to be a real long shot.

It was difficult to avoid reaching a game contract for North could hardly refrain from raising his partner's opening one spade bid. The South hand had an original valuation of 18 points but after spades had been supported the holding was enhanced by three points — one for the fifth spade and two for the sixth. The rebid of four spades was, therefore, mandatory.

Unfortunately, however, North had the "wrong" hand. Many a dummy containing no more than seven points might render the contract a laydown.

West opened the king of diamonds and when dummy was spread it seemed to declarer there was no very sound play for the hand. Apparently he must lose two clubs, a diamond and a heart.

There were two possible holdings on which the hand could be made legitimately: (a) the king and queen of hearts both in the East hand and the ace of clubs right; (b) the ace-queen of clubs doubleton in the East hand.

South decided to try the latter play and drew trumps in three rounds winding up in dummy. A low club was led next and, when East put on the nine, declarer's hope apparently went glimmering. Declarer went up with the king and lost to West's ace. West then cashed the queen of diamonds and continued with a third round. This gave declarer a chance.

If East's original holding had been the queen-nine of clubs declarer was now home. After ruffing the third round of diamonds, he played the seven of clubs and ducked in the North hand. East was compelled to win with the queen and the heart shift came too late. Declarer won with the ace and led the five of clubs, finessing the eight in dummy. The losing heart was then discarded on dummy's jack of clubs.

Fair Trade Bill Now In Congress

Collapse of "fair trade" laws in many states has led to revival of interest in federal legislation to permit nationwide enforcement of standard retail prices on trademarked merchandise. A special Senate Commerce subcommittee will open public hearings today on such a measure, introduced by Sens. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) and William Proxmire (D-Wis.).

The reasoning behind the legislation, as set forth by its sponsors, is that "the sale, order for sale, or advertisement of identified merchandise at less than the price established by the proprietor is a misuse of the trademarks, brand, or trade name identifying such merchandise, and damages the goodwill associated therewith." National retail druggist groups are chief supporters, while discount houses and some trade groups are the opponents.

Federal legislation during the Depression encouraged the states to enact "fair trade" laws by exempting operations under them from federal antitrust rules. By 1950, 45 states had adopted such laws. A year later, however, the Supreme Court held that retailers who did not sign pricing agreements with manufacturers could not be forced to charge specific resale prices. Congress thereupon authorized states, under their "fair trade" laws, to make the fixed prices binding on non-signers.

Since then, state courts have undercut 16 of the 45 state "fair trade" laws, ruling them completely invalid in two states and invalid as to non-signers in the remaining 14. The Supreme Court in March 1960 made things still more difficult for the price fixers by ruling that manufacturers could refuse to sell to a price-cutting retailer but could not enlist the aid of wholesalers and other retailers to block the discounter from getting supplies. Last May the Supreme Court went a step farther by refusing to consider a suit filed by a drug manufacturer to force a local retailer to adhere to "fair trade" prices.

Despite the heightened agitation for a federal "fair trade" law, the chances for passage are not bright. Similar bills were introduced in the last Congress but only one was reported; it never came to a vote because the House Rules Committee refused to grant a rule for floor action. The influence of the small business lobby dictates a respectful public hearing for "fair trade" legislation, but Congressmen know that there are more consumers than merchants and that the consumers' prevailing interest is in the lowest possible price.

These Days

The Yappers

Always there must be conversation. It is a way to pass the time. It saves eyesight because when one talks, he need not read. Why worry about knowledge—it is possible to read book reviews. Then one can talk for hours about the book. So along comes a slob who asks:

"Did you read it?"

That spoils everything. Of course, nobody reads the book yet. They're all waiting for a paper-back to show up. Besides, even if you have the paper-back, it is not necessary to read the stuff. It is enough if one holds it in his hand. By osmosis, the stuff somehow gets into his system. Then he can talk. The point is to be able to talk—to communicate, is the phrase. Surely, one must be able to communicate.

So there is a discussion and believe it or not, this is authentic. The question is thrown into the hopper: How did the United Nations come into existence?

This is too specific a question. It is like asking for a definition. As a matter of fact, did it come into existence at all? In what context? The conversation moves along.

"Oh!" says a blithe spirit. "Eleanor Roosevelt started it as one of her projects."

So there is talk about that and also about Eleanor Roosevelt and is she sincere? Then the boor in the crowd throws in his two cents:

"All this bushwhack is nonsense. The United Nations came into existence as a result of the San Francisco Conference in 1945."

That spoiled everything. Who asked him to cut the conversation short by being so specific? It might have been fun to speculate. Was it Yalta or Potsdam or London or maybe Casablanca? What do you mean when you say that Roosevelt was dead at the time? So, who was President?

At that point, the yapping takes a halt because it is necessary to drink coffee. It is impossible to sit in a place all night and not drink coffee.

So, the problem is how to pass the time in intellectual pursuits without doing any work? Of course, it is possible to spend an evening dealing with John Kennedy who ain't what we thought he would be. Well, what did you think he'd be? He isn't radical like a young man should be, but then he isn't as young as he looks. Neither is Marilyn Monroe. Will she be Jewish now that she dumped Miller or will she go into the church if she remarries Joe DiMaggio?

"No! They're just friends. When she's in trouble, the guy is a good sport and comes around to look after her. You can't expect a great star like that to look after herself, even if she knows how, which most don't because it ain't professional."

So, the boor asks, "What did you expect Jack Kennedy to be that he isn't?"

Did he have to bring that up again? Who asked him? Besides, he is in Sorel and Francisco Ferrer and even Bakunin and Kropotkin, so what do I have to do with Presidents?

The startling fact to me is that all this yapping is done by boys and girls who are going to college or who are just out of college. What did they learn? What intellectual or spiritual benefit did they get in a college?

The boor begins to ask questions about college courses and college work. It spoils the evening. First of all, that girl over there who yapped so much and said that she went to Columbia University made a slight mistake; she went to the School for General Studies where she took two courses just to be able to say that she once went to college.

The point of the matter is that there are some who go to college to learn and there are those who just go. And it is getting to be too expensive to keep schools going for those who just go. Instead of loading the nation down with a huge bill for so-called education, let us either educate or close down the joints.

'C'mon Boy-Get In There And Fight'

Berlin Plan Gives Stress To Conventional Forces

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON. Devising a sensible specific plan for a crunch at Berlin was the truly time-consuming task in these last six weeks. This was the crucial phase of the long, tortuous, anxious effort to chart a course for the Berlin crisis.

This simple central fact puts all the other, superficially puzzling facts already known about the planning effort into intelligible perspective. For example, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Lyman Lemnitzer, seem to be going abroad to do a job that could just as well be done by telegram.

But their mission is really not to explain that defense appropriations will be increased by more than $3 billion, and that conventional forces will be substantially built up by various devices including a major call-up of manpower later on, and so forth and so forth. Their mission is primarily to deal with the heart of the matter — to explain and secure agreement on the military plan that has been devised.

The nature of this plan is completely unknown, and should remain unknown. But the kind of plan it was designed to replace is unknown, and deserves to be known, too.

The plain truth is that the fat, plumb years of complacency had reduced the Pentagon to what can only be described as a state of nuclear frivolity. For budgetary reasons the conventional forces had been allowed to decay disastrously. Hence the nuclear weapons had come to be regarded, not as a last resort, which they most emphatically still are, but as a sole military remedy, which they ought never to be.

The degree of frivolity and political unreality resulting from this attitude can be judged by an actual scheme that was proposed to the President by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He turned it down with considerable indignation.

If this scheme had been adopted, the first riposte to a crunch

at Berlin would have been to send a few trucks down the Autobahn from Helmstedt. It was then provided that if these six or seven trucks were halted by the East Germans, the Strategic Air Command was to be automatically ordered to deliver an H-bomb attack. And that was to be that.

The new phrase of this kind of planning is "self-deterrence" — meaning total reliance on plans of such a character that they would never be carried out by any non-paranoid national leader. There is some excuse for this kind of planning in the geographical and tactical limitations of the Berlin position. But it is still frivolous.

Fortunately, one of the services of the late John Foster Dulles was to prove the value and effectiveness of a very different approach. The proof was provided weapons of modern war, the thermo-nuclear weapons, remained unused in their storage places at great distances from the point of contact. But they controlled the outcome. The test of will finally convinced the Kremlin that the U. S. meant business; and that there was a genuine danger that the real weapons might be used later on. At this point, Nikita S.

During those weeks, the real

Khrushchev briskly called off the test of will.

The theory of the new Berlin approach, which is known to be multiphased, must obviously be based on the Quemoy experience. It is certainly based on a solemn decision to use nuclear weapons if there is no other alternative to surrender. That is its only possible basis. But equally certainly, the new approach does not call for going straight from the most trivial military action to the final leap into the inferno. In some manner or other, in fact, it allows a serious reasonably prolonged test of will at Berlin.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff literally could not devise plans for this kind of test which the forces formerly available. In this sense, the frivolity of the earlier plans is understandable. This in turn also explains the long argument about force-levels, about a call-up now or later, and so on, which had gripped Washington for weeks. The question was how to provide the forces for a serious test.

The aim of the military test, if it occurs, will of course be to convince Nikita S. Khrushchev that the Western Allies are ready to defend Berlin's freedom at all costs. This is the present aim of Western diplomacy. But, even if the Berlin crunch reaches the combat stage, room has now been gained for a result like the result at Quemoy.

There could be no better news for all of us, nor worse news for the Kremlin planners who so plainly believe the Western leaders are trapped, by past folly, in unavoidable "self - deterrence."

This is the light in which to judge the President's speech, always voting for you."

New Hayfever Treatment Still Controversial

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

week to every three weeks throughout the year, as in costly and time consuming. The busy person with severe hay fever will profit most from the newer technique.

A housewife with three children told me that in the past she had to get a baby sitter every three weeks while she went downtown to get her allergy injections. The car had to be parked and on many occasions she waited 15 minutes to a half hour in the reception room.

Because the injections caused side effects, her physician suggested she remain for observation in the office 30 minutes after receiving the solution. Furthermore, frequent injections did not provide complete protection and she developed itching and mild nasal congestion during the hay fever season.

She was tiring of the entire affair and had planned to change her tactics, taking a three week vacation in a low pollen north woods area in late summer. She expected to rely upon the anti-histimine or corticosteroid drugs to control sneezing and nasal congestion during the first week or 10 days of the season. This is possible because it takes time for hayfever to get rolling. Then the repository treatment was developed and the results were better than she anticipated.

The emulsion is difficult to prepare and requires special equipment. Severe reactions occur unless the active ingredient (antigen) is mixed and sealed thoroughly within the oil droplets, to delay absorption. Some allergists divide the total dose and give five separate shots into an arm at 15 minute intervals. Others give a single large dose early in May, followed by a second in mid-June or July.

Publication Of Votes On Farm Bill Puts Congressmen Into A Dither

four Dixiecrats. Family farms lost 17 to 15.

When this roll-call, held behind closed doors, was published in this column, Congressional phones began to buzz. Anti-family farm Republicans were on the spot. Rep. Delbert Latta of Bowling Green, Ohio, almost did a dance trying to explain his vote to northern Ohio constituents.

Inside story of what happened was that in voting on various provisions in the farm bill, Rep. Tom Abernethy of Mississippi, ranking Republican, who had got two fellow Republicans, Albert Quiet of Minnesota and Ben Reifel of South Dakota, into hot water by voting their proxies against family farms, whispered earnestly to Chairman Cooley.

Chairman Cooley immediately objected, demanded a roll-call vote. "If this is passed, it will repudiate the family farm," he said.

It is unusual to have a roll-call vote on routine measures before the House Agriculture Committee. Usually sections of the bill are passed merely by a show of hands or calling for the yeas and nays. But Cooley considered this so important that he wanted to put each member on record for or against family farms with a recorded roll-call vote.

The vote showed all Republicans, except Mrs. May of Washington, against family farms, plus

"In a recent conversation with Wilbur Cohen in Ann Arbor," wrote Dr. Teed, "Dean W. H. Hubbard of the medical school asked him if he did not agree that if his program was adopted that it would mean the destruction of the medical profession. Mr. Cohen admitted it would."

The conversation, of course, never took place.

Note—on the other hand, a lot of doctors have written direct to the Department of HEW disagreeing with the AMA in regard to medical care for the elderly. They say they have to belong to the "medical union," but don't agree with its policies.

TV BOYCOTT

If you dare tangle with the networks, if you have the courage to criticize their blood-and-thunder programs, you may be subject to a network boycott. This was the warning that Sen. Gale McGee, the forthright ex-history professor from Wyoming, gave the Senate recently, after reading a Broadcasting Magazine veiled threat and Lawrence Laurent's exposure of it in the Washington Post.

David Susskind, Bill Goodson, and Robert Montgomery had dared brave the networks by testifying against TV programming at the Federal Communications hearings in New York and at the Senate Juvenile delinquency hearings in Washington.

Later, Broadcasting Magazine, spokesman for the network moguls, warned that they "may find it difficult to find a friendly port in which to do business."

Broadcasting Magazine's hint was so broad, and Sol Taishoff, its publisher, is known as such a wily spokesman for the TV industry, that the FCC, in concluding its hearings, inserted a warning to the industry "that retaliatory action against witnesses in a hearing such as this would hardly comport with the responsibilities assumed by the Commission's licensees."

In other words, network stations have to come up for renewal every three years, and the FCC has the power to retaliate against any network which goes in for retaliation.

Sen. McGee, who's been subjected to a lot of network lobbying but remains "untouchable," warned the TV industry before the Senate that there will be many watchful eyes observing the future conduct of contracting and talent arrangements in the television industry.

Fair Trade Bill Now In Congress

Collapse of "fair trade" laws in many states has led to revival of interest in federal legislation to permit nationwide enforcement of standard retail prices on trademarked merchandise. A special Senate Commerce subcommittee will open public hearings today on such a measure, introduced by Sens. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) and William Proxmire (D-Wis.).

The reasoning behind the legislation, as set forth by its sponsors, is that "the sale, offer for sale, or advertisement of identified merchandise at less than the price established by the proprietor is a misuse of the trademarks, brand, or trade name identifying such merchandise, and damages the goodwill associated therewith." National retail druggist groups are chief supporters, while discount houses and some trade groups are the opponents.

Federal legislation during the Depression encouraged the states to enact "fair trade" laws by exempting operations under them from federal antitrust rules. By 1950, 45 states had adopted such laws. A year later, however, the Supreme Court held that retailers who did not sign pricing agreements with manufacturers could not be forced to charge specific resale prices. Congress thereupon authorized states, under their "fair trade" laws, to make the fixed prices binding on non-signers.

Since then, state courts have undercut 16 of the 45 state "fair trade" laws, ruling them completely invalid in two states and invalid as to non-signers in the remaining 14. The Supreme Court in March 1960 made things still more difficult for the price fixers by ruling that manufacturers could refuse to sell to a price-cutting retailer but could not enlist the aid of wholesalers and other retailers to block the discounter from getting supplies. Last May the Supreme Court went a step farther by refusing to consider a suit filed by a drug manufacturer to force a local retailer to adhere to "fair trade" prices.

Despite the heightened agitation for a federal "fair trade" law, the chances for passage are not bright. Similar bills were introduced in the last Congress but only one was reported; it never came to a vote because the House Rules Committee refused to grant a rule for floor action. The influence of the small business lobby dictates a respectful public hearing for "fair trade" legislation, but Congressmen know that there are more consumers than merchants and that the consumers' prevailing interest is in the lowest possible price.

These Days

The Yappers

Always there must be conversation. It is a way to pass the time. It saves eyesight because when one talks, he need not read. Why worry about knowledge? It is possible to read book reviews. Then one can talk for hours about the book. So along comes a slob who asks:

"Did you read it?"

That spoils everything. Of course, nobody reads the book yet. They're all waiting for a paper-back to show up. Besides, even if you have the paper-back, it is not necessary to read the stuff. It is enough if one holds it in his hand. By osmosis, the stuff somehow gets into his system. Then he can talk. The point is to be able to talk—to communicate, is the phrase. Surely, one must be able to communicate.

So there is a discussion and believe it or not, this is authentic. The question is thrown into the hopper: How did the United Nations come into existence at all? In what context? The conversation moves along.

This is too specific a question. It is like asking for a definition. As a matter of fact, did it come into existence at all? In what context? The conversation moves along.

"Oh!" says a blithe spirit. "Eleanor Roosevelt started it as one of her projects."

So there is talk about that and also about Eleanor Roosevelt and is she sincere? Then the boor in the crowd throws in his two cents:

"All this bushwhack is nonsense. The United Nations came into existence as a result of the San Francisco Conference in 1945."

That spoiled everything. Who asked him to cut the conversation short by being so specific? It might have been fun to speculate. Was it Yalta or Potsdam or London or maybe Casablanca? What do you mean when you say that Roosevelt was dead at the time? So, who was President?

At that point, the yapping takes a halt because it is necessary to drink coffee. It is impossible to sit in a place all night and not drink coffee.

So the problem is how to pass the time in intellectual pursuits without doing any work? Of course, it is possible to spend an evening dealing with John Kennedy who ain't what we thought he would be. Well, what did you think he'd be? He isn't radical like a young man should be, but then he isn't as young as he looks. Neither is Marilyn Monroe. Will she be Jewish now that she dumped Miller or will she go into the Church if she remarries Joe DiMaggio?

"No!" They're just friends. When she's in trouble, the guy is a good sport and comes around to look after her. You can't expect a great star like that to look after herself, even if she knows how, which most don't because it ain't professional."

So, the boor asks, "What did you expect Jack Kennedy to be that he isn't?"

Did he have to bring that up again? Who asked him? Besides, I believe in Sorel and Francisco Ferrer and even Bakunin and Kropotkin, so what do I have to do with Presidents?

The startling fact to me is that all this yapping is done by boys and girls who are going to college or who are just out of college. What did they learn? What intellectual or spiritual benefit did they get in a college?

So the boor begins to ask questions about college courses and college work. It spoils the evening. First of all, that girl over there who yapped so much and said that she went to Columbia University made a slight mistake; she went to the School for General Studies where she took two courses just to be able to say that she once went to college.

The point of the matter is that there are some who go to college to learn and there are those who just go. And it is getting to be too expensive to keep schools going for those who just go. Instead of loading the nation down with a huge bill for so-called education, let us either educate or close down the joints.

Berlin Plan Gives Stress To Conventional Forces

at Berlin would have been to send a few trucks down the Autobahn from Helmstedt. It was then provided that if these six or seven trucks were halted by the East Germans, the Strategic Air Command was to be automatically ordered to deliver an H-bomb attack. And that was to be that.

This simple central fact puts all the other, superficially puzzling facts already known about the planning effort into intelligible perspective. For example, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Lyman Lemnitzer, seem to be going abroad to do a job that could just as well be done by telegram.

But their mission is really not to explain that defense appropriations will be increased by more than $3 billion, and that conventional forces will be substantially built up by various devices including a major call-up of manpower later on, and so forth and so forth. Their mission is primarily to deal with the heart of the matter — to explain and secure agreement on the military plan that has been devised.

The nature of this plan is completely unknown, and should remain unknown. But the kind of plan it was designed to replace is unknown, and deserves to be known, too.

The plain truth is that the fat, plumb years of complacency had reduced the Pentagon to what can only be described as a state of nuclear frivolity. For budgetary reasons the conventional forces had been allowed to decay disastrously. Hence the nuclear weapons had come to be regarded, not as a last resort, which they most emphatically still are, but as a sole military remedy, which they ought never to be.

Inside story of what happened was that in voting on various provisions in the farm bill, Rep. the Medical Union.

Doctors across the country have started carrying out orders from the American Medical Association, as revealed recently in this column, to divert their personal attacks from President Kennedy to Assistant Secretary Wilbur Cohen of the Health, Education, and Welfare Department.

The reasoning behind this strategy is that it will be easier to undermine the President's medical-care-for-the-elderly program by blaming it on a lesser bureaucrat. Kennedy is too popular.

As a result, letters have been pouring into Congress every day, accusing the little-known Cohen of all manner of skullduggery. The most common line is that he is out to destroy the medical profession. A few doctors have even suggested ominously that Cohen must be a Communist.

Typical of this smear mail is a letter from Dr. R. Wallace Tread to Senator Phil Hart, Michigan Democrat.

"In a recent conversation with Wilbur Cohen in Ann Arbor," wrote Dr. Teed, "Dean W. H. Hubbard of the medical school asked him if he did not agree that if his program was adopted that it would mean the destruction of the medical profession. Mr. Cohen admitted it would."

Strange thing happened: a stage hand responded almost immediately to the electrician's request.

Cambria County Fair Will Open On Labor Day

New Buildings Are Being Added

EBENSBURG, Pa. — Something new is being added to the Cambria County Fairgrounds here this year, not only in entertainment for the family but also in physical facilities.

Numerous buildings, plus the main entrance arch to the fairgrounds, will be painted.

Mr. Green said new interest will be placed on various agricultural entries, as well as for the other many attractions in the Fair's exhibition and farm buildings.

Tale Of Heroism During Flood Is Disclosed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Another tale of heroism during last week's Charleston area flash floods was disclosed Monday.

Two boys, ages 16 and 17, were credited with saving the lives of four children and two women in the Elk Two-Mile area which suffered heavy loss in both life and property.

The newest heroes of the disaster were identified as James Burgess, 17, and Roger Cobart, 16. They and three men got word at a gas station, where young Burgess, worked, that the women and their children were trapped in a home in the path of the floodwaters.

Burgess said the men turned back as the waters got higher, but he and his companion went on. They found the house and the women had placed the small children atop a refrigerator to keep them out of the water.

Burgess and the other boy scrambled into an attic and pounded a hole in the roof. Burgess said they helped the children through the opening, then got the women. Burgess said the water in the house was up to his chin when he helped the second woman to the roof, and climbed out himself.

Burgess said he slipped on the roof as he climbed out and the other boy grabbed his hand, keeping him from falling into the ragged floodwaters.

All six were presently rescued by searchers in a rowboat.

Harold Sauerbrey, former sports writer, is the new business manager of the Cleveland Browns football team.

Funds Sought For Park In Rocky Gap Section

A budget request of $365,000 for capital improvements for the next fiscal year has been asked in Allegany and Garrett counties by the State Department of Forests and Parks.

Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the department, said two major projects would be undertaken if the State Department of Public Works approves it and the money is allocated by the General Assembly.

The two would be the construction of a conference building for conventions, and other large gatherings at Deep Creek Lake State Park and the other, for the acquisition of land for a Rocky Gap State Park located on Evitts Mountain just off Union Grove Road.

The conference structure at Deep Creek would cost $150,000.

Orioles Need Pitching Help, Richards Says

Birds Lose 8 Of 11 Since All-Star Tilt

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Manager Paul Richards, whose Baltimore Orioles have lost eight of eleven games since the All-Star break, says his pitching staff needs help.

"Our pitching is awful," Richards said before the Orioles met the Los Angeles Dodgers in the Hall of Fame game here.

"We can't get anyone out. We need help. There's no use kidding ourselves any longer. We can't go on like this."

"The Humane society will put a stop to it if I don't. We've got boys playing in a man's league," Richards said.

Richards and general manager Lee MacPhail were to talk Monday about acquiring another pitcher. There was a strong possibility a hurler from the Birds' Triple-A farm club in Rochester would be brought up.

"I'm not that familiar with the performances of the guys in the farm system," Richards said. "It's up to Lee to get a pitcher who can help us."

The Baltimore manager was particularly disconcerted with the pitching performances of Chuck Estrada and Milt Pappas against Chicago over the weekend.

"I keep telling these guys not to pitch if their arms are bothering them, but they keep going out there anyway," Richards said.

Estrada was knocked out by the White Sox after an 11-3 innings Sunday and Pappas was lifted after 1 1-3 innings Saturday night.

Pappas appears to be lost to the Orioles for at least a two-week period, perhaps longer. Estrada is expected to miss his next regular turn. Both could be out indefinitely.

If a Rochester pitcher is brought up — possibly Art Quirk, Herb Motord or Gordon Jones — one of the present squad would have to be cut. It could be a pitcher or one of the Birds' eight outfielders.

Market Irregular, Lower As Steels Forge Ahead

NEW YORK (AP)—Strength in steel shares failed to rally an irregular stock market Monday and the trend was irregularly lower. Trading was quiet.

The steels went ahead solidly in the wake of a reversal of sentiment concerning these stocks which began when Republic Steel, the third largest producer, came up with higher earnings last week. U.S. Steel reports on quarterly results Tuesday and Bethlehem Thursday.

Much previous pessimism centered on Bethlehem, which has not been earning enough to cover its dividend, and doubt was expressed by some Wall Streeters that it would declare the usual 60 cents payout. Opinion now seemed to be that customary dividends would be declared.

Bethlehem advanced 1%, as did Republic, while U.S. Steel added 1%. Jones & Laughlin rose 1 1/4, National Steel, reporting higher quarterly earnings than a year ago, and a big rise of second quarter profits over first quarter, advanced a point.

The rest of the list was spotty, losers outnumbering gainers by 539 to 454 among the 1,233 issues traded. New highs for the year totalled 9 and new lows 28.

Trading continued cautious, with volume at 2.49 million shares May. Corporate volume totaled $5.73 million par value compared with 2.36 million Friday.

Sharp losses by several key with $5.84 million Friday.

Senate Group Backs Canal Park Measure

Beall Announces Committee Action

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall yesterday afternoon announced that the full Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs had approved his bill, S. 77, for creation of the C&O Canal National Historical Park and advanced it for report to the Senate.

The Senator from Frostburg is confident it will pass the Senate without difficulty.

The bill, as approved by the full committee, includes Senator Beall's amendment providing for the purchase of 10,200 acres of additional land for the park. As originally established the park would include federally-owned land to the extent of 4,800 acres. The amendment would bring the total authorized size of the park to 15,000 acres.

Senator Beall had amended his own bill to take in the entire 15,000 acres after conferring with Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall. The Secretary promised Kennedy Administration support for full National Park status for the canal project including the increased acreage. The committee put a limit of $1,500,000 on the cost of the land purchase.

With the support of Secretary Udall and the Administration, Senator Beall feels confident his bill also will pass the House of Representatives. It was as an aid to get the measure through the House, which had blocked the bill previously, that Senator Beall omitted the land purchase clause when introducing the bill in January. However, he put the purchase feature in the bill after conferring with Secretary Udall.

Senator Beall said the park is not only of vital importance to Maryland and the National Capital but to some 18,000,000 residents of seven adjacent states as a great recreational area.

The bill would permit flooding some portion of the park should it be found necessary to build more dams on the Potomac River in accordance with plans of the Corps of Engineers.

Butler Predicts Backing For Defense Plans

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sen. John Marshall Butler, R-Md., predicted Monday Congress will endorse whatever the Kennedy Administration recommends for strengthening this country's defenses, but said it probably will react more conservatively on other programs.

Referring to a current build up of the military, Butler said the administration calls it "a necessary prelude to negotiation."

"I prefer to say that the mobilization is a reaction by the administration to a growing conviction among the people that it is time to stop talking and to start acting," said Butler in his weekly newsletter to constituents.

"I believe that the Congress will not flinch from its responsibilities to provide the necessary funds for any move required for the good of the national defense."

As for domestic programs of the Kennedy Administration, the Republican senator stated:

"The Congress cannot be expected to approve essential expenditures for our military posture and non-essential monies for an extension of the welfare state."

The federal government does not know and can never be expected to know the answers to the 180 million different economic problems of the American people."

Hot Weather Forecast To Continue Today

The hot, humid weather experienced here for the past several days is forecast to continue today, according to the Weather Bureau which predicts highs again in the 90s.

Yesterday's high downtown of 95 degrees tied for the season's high which also was recorded on June 12 and July 8.

Senate Group Backs Canal Park Measure

Beall Announces Committee Action

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall yesterday afternoon announced that the full Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs had approved his bill, S 77, for creation of the C&O Canal National Historical Park and advanced it for report to the Senate.

The Senator from Frostburg is confident it will pass the Senate without difficulty.

The bill, as approved by the full committee, includes Senator Beall's amendment providing for the purchase of 10,200 acres of additional land for the park. As originally established the park would include federally-owned land to the extent of 4,800 acres. The amendment would bring the total authorized size of the park to 15,000 acres.

Senator Beall had amended his own bill to take in the entire 15,000 acres after conferring with Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall. The Secretary promised Kennedy Administration support for full National Park status for the canal project including the increased acreage. The committee put a limit of $1,500,000 on the cost of the land purchase.

With the support of Secretary Udall and the Administration, Senator Beall feels confident his bill also will pass the House of Representatives. It was an aid to get the measure through the House, which had blocked the bill previously, that Senator Beall omitted the land purchase clause when introducing the bill in January. However, he put the purchase feature in the bill after conferring with Secretary Udall.

Senator Beall said the park is not only of vital importance to Maryland and the National Capital but to some 18,000,000 residents of seven adjacent states as a great recreational area.

The bill would permit flooding some portion of the park should it be found necessary to build more dams on the Potomac River in accordance with plans of the Corps of Engineers.

Butler Predicts Backing For Defense Plans

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sen. John Marshall Butler, R-Md., predicted Monday Congress will endorse whatever the Kennedy Administration recommends for strengthening this country's defenses, but said it probably will react more conservatively on other programs.

Referring to the current build up of the military, Butler said the administration calls it "a necessary prelude to negotiation."

"I prefer to say that the mobilization is a reaction by the administration to a growing conviction among the people that it is time to stop talking and to start acting," said Butler in his weekly newsletter to constituents.

"I believe that the Congress will not flinch from its responsibilities to provide the necessary funds for any move required for the good of the national defense."

As for domestic programs of the Kennedy Administration, the Republican senator stated:

"The Congress cannot be expected to approve essential expenditures for our military posture and non-essential monies for an extension of the welfare state."

The federal government does not know and can never be expected to know the answers to the 180 million different economic problems of the American people."
